Foundry Industry

BY FRANK G. STEINEBACH
Editor, THE FOUNDRY, Chairman of the Munitions Board Foundry Industry
Advisory Committee

DURING World War II, the foundry industry encountered great difficulty in rendering maximum service to the government, due to a general lack of understanding of the importance of all types of castings to practically all phases of materiel procurement. The difficulties were brought to a focal point in 1943 when preparation for the invasion of Europe brought tremendous demands for castings. Because these needs had not been foreseen early in the emergency and as a result skilled manpower in many gray iron and malleable foundries had been permitted to migrate to other industrial fields, the problem of producing castings in sufficient quantities to meet rush schedules became almost insurmountable.

Few people, including those in government, realize the widespread use of castings and the importance of their components in the functioning of our civilization, either in peace or war. Varying in weight from less than an ounce to over 200 tons, castings range in application from small precision parts, such as blades on the jet engine impellers to frames for giant presses. Castings are made from ferrous metals in the form of gray iron, chilled iron, malleable iron and steel, and from nonferrous metals including aluminum, magnesium, brass and bronze. Castings have a myriad of applications, including agricultural implements, automobiles, buses and trucks, railway cars and engines, machine tools, industrial equipment, military materiel, home equipment, municipal services, such as water, gas and electricity, and marine engines, to name only a few. Castings provide one of the basic engineering construction materials and because of constant improvements in practice and product, this position of importance is being maintained.

As a result of difficulties in manpower, raw materials, specifications and inspection, the foundry industry at the close of the war undertook to gain greater recognition of the importance of castings either in war or in peace. After numerous exploratory meetings, the eight societies of the industry organized the National Castings Council to provide a medium of cooperative action on matters of united interest which are beyond the scope of the Defense Order Hits Warrant Promotions

Because of lack of funds in the 1951 budget for payment of warrant officers in the two higher grades—despite provisions of the Career Compensation Act—Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson has directed the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force to limit drastically the promotions of warrant officers.

Additional funds to implement the provisions of the Career Compensation Act for the distribution of warrant officers were not included in next year's budget because no over-all plan for a career program had been submitted to the Bureau of the Budget by the Department of Defense.

In a memorandum to the Personnel Policy Board on 15 July 1949 Secretary Johnson directed that a study be made of the Officer Personnel Act of 1947 and that a comprehensive revision be made for submission to the 82d Congress. Included in the study is the warrant officer program of the Services.

Pending completion of the study the Departments individually developed, and in some cases put in effect, preliminary plans for the promotion of warrant officers to the new higher pay grades. The new directive of the Secretary of Defense limits the extent to which such plans can be made effective.

The result will be that because of the failure of the Personnel Policy Board to complete its study of the problem many warrant officers will be denied the increased pay to which they would otherwise be entitled under the law.

Mr. Johnson's directive provides that no promotions to Grades W-4 and W-3 will be made except to the extent that funds can be made available by adjustments in other personnel programs; that numbers of warrant officers in each department promoted to Grades W-4 and W-3 shall not exceed 3 per cent and 7 per cent, respectively, of the planned warrant officer strength of 30 June 1950; that the number of warrant officers above W-1 in the Army and Air Force shall not exceed 40 per cent of the total warrant officer strength of these two Services.

A copy of the Defense Secretary's directive to the three Departments follows:

"The fiscal year 1951 budget as approved by the President does not provide funds for the distribution of warrant officers in proportions higher than those allowed in the 1950 budget despite the authorization in the Career Compensation Act for two additional higher pay grades for warrant officers. This action was taken for the reason that no over-all plan for the Department of Defense covering a career program for warrant officers had been substituted to the Bureau of the Budget at the time of the budget review.

"The Personnel Policy Board was directed by my memorandum of 15 July 1949 to conduct a study of the effect and operation of the Officer Personnel Act of 1947 and to prepare a comprehensive revision of this Act for submission to the 82d Congress. Among the problems included in this study are those

Secretary of Defense Louis A. Johnson told 691 graduates of the U. S. Naval Academy yesterday, 2 June, that they are entering upon a Naval career at a time of great transition and "will be privileged to play a vital role in the scientific revolution that will unfold itself."

He said that no one doubts the ability of the new ensigns to adjust themselves to atomic energy, jet power and guided missiles, just as their predecessors had adjusted to the revolutionary changes from sail to steam, wooden ships to ironclads and from surface to aircraft and submarines.

Reporting on the progress of unification, the Defense Secretary declared that "the progress made in the year has exceeded our most sanguine expectations."

He said that disagreements are to be expected among "vigorous men with strong loyalties," but he added that "we

Army Organization Bill

The Senate Armed Services Committee this week favorably reported a Senate Bill for the reorganization of the Army. The Senate measure follows closely the reorganization bill which is now on the House calendar and which is expected to come up for final passage.

However, in a few important particulars the Senate bill provides for greater flexibility in organization and greater authority for the Secretary of the Army than is contained in the House version.

The Senate measure would give the Secretary authority to create new branches of the Army, and to consolidate or discontinue existing branches, without prior Congressional approval. The House bill would authorize such a reorganization by the Secretary only during war or a national emergency.

In commenting on this provision the Senate committee calls attention to the fact that there is no such limitation with respect to the Navy, the Marine Corps or the Air Force. It states that the Secretary should be authorized to readjust the structure of the Army to meet existing conditions. It suggests that it would be helpful if the Secretary were authorized to create in time of peace additional basic branches without Congressional approval, as, for example, a guided missile branch.

The Senate committee approved the House limitation of 3,000 officers assigned to the Department of the Army, with a maximum of 1,000 on the General Staff. There are at present 2,645 Army officers on duty in the Department, of which 974 are assigned to or on duty with the General Staff.

The Senate bill adds a unique provision whereby on the recommendation of the Secretary of the Army, concurred in by the chairmen of the appropriate Congressional committees the numbers could be increased at any time.

Name 2294 USAF Lts. For Perm. Promotion

The President this week approved the selection of 2294 Regular Air Force first lieutenants for permanent promotion to captain.

In a report which showed a pass-over rate of less than four per cent, the selection board deferred 80 officers, of whom 29 were passed over for the second time and therefore will be separated from service.

Of the 2294 officers—21 are medical officers and two are medical service officers—21 are to be promoted immediately upon their confirmation by the Senate. The remainder will be advanced as they complete the required seven years of promotion list service.

Recapitulating total pass-over action since introduction of the Officer Personnel Act of 1947, the Air Force said this week that 329 first lieutenants, 93 captains and 75 majors have been deferred for promotion one time and that 63 first lieutenants, six captains and five majors have been, or will be separated as a result of being passed over twice.

Meantime, the Air Force will convene other selection boards this month to consider officers for permanent advancement to colonel and general officer rank. Similar boards are to meet in September and November to consider records of officers for permanent promotion to lieutenant colonel and major, respectively.

The selection results reported this week show that about 200 permanent first lieutenants previously deferred were picked up and recommended for promotion on their second selection test.

The last selections for the rank of permanent rank of captain, as reported in the 2 July 1949 issue of THE JOURNAL, resulted in the promotion of 2,071 officers. But 228 were passed over for the first time last year and 34 were not selected for a second time and were eliminated. Of the group of 228, all but 29 were chosen for promotion.

The first permanent captain selection board passed over 50 officers out of 1,380.

The following are the names of the 2294 Air Force permanent first lieutenants who are to be promoted to the rank of captain.

Philadelphia Inquirer — "Recent recommendations by the Defense Department that aid to the aviation industry for development of new types of passenger and jet transport planes be restricted to the testing phases and limited to $12,500,000 seem reasonable. Some help seems necessary. . . . From a defense standpoint, the United States can't afford to be dependent upon an overseas source for its transport and cargo planes."

Los Angeles Times — "The statement of Admiral Forrest P. Sherman . . . that the Navy now has a carrier that can carry a plane large enough to deliver an atom bomb, will surprise no one with a remote idea of the technical requirements. Whether such a plane could land back aboard the biggest of our present carriers is another matter. It is becoming widely recognized, however, that atomic weapons have tactical as well as strategic and psychological uses and that no single Service arm should have a monopoly of them."

Greensboro, N. C., News — "It is good with the cold war showing no signs of smoothing out in the immediate future, for the small striking force the U. S. does have to be well-equipped and well-trained."

Charleston, W. Va., Gazette — "The atomic bomb has changed more than the nature of defenses required for a city. It has come very near to rendering futile any preparations for recovery after an attack has occurred; it has come near to creating a situation in which the only defenses of any value are those which can prevent an attack from being carried out."

Columbus, Ohio, Citizen — "After a long period of hesitancy and inconclusive maneuvering, it's good to see the Army come up with a realistic reserve program."

Indianapolis Times — "Economy and preparedness need not remain strangers to each other. . . . We will do well to consider any pressing needs of the Defense Department in terms of our ability to cut till it hurts in other departments."

urged the committee to remove any limitation on the number of officers on duty in Washington, or on the General Staff. They pointed out that in time of international tension it might be desirable to increase the number of officers on planning duties, and any request for Congressional authority for such an increase might serve to inform potential enemies of any acceleration of planning operations. The committee suggested the possibility of the unconstitutionality of legislative provisions limiting the powers of the commander-in-chief in this respect.

The House bill limited the number of Deputy Chiefs of Staff to three, and the number of Assistant Chiefs to five. These limitations were removed by the Senate Committee, which left the number of deputies and assistants to the discretion of the Secretary of the Army.

Both the House and Senate versions are in agreement as to the substitution of Armor for Cavalry, the merging of Field and Coast Artillery in an Artillery arm, the establishment of the Transportation Corps and the creation of the office of Provost Marshal General.

The Senate committee objected to the provision in the House bill which fixed as a minimum the strength of the Corps of Engineers as provided by existing law. It commented that this protection was not accorded to any other branch of the Army.

While both the Senate and House bills make drastic changes in the statutory structure of the Army they follow closely the existing organization, formed under Executive Orders issued under the war powers of the President.

have a right to demand that ultimately, after adequate discussion, they will get together in the national interest and come to definite decisions that will bind them all."

Concluding his graduation address, Secretary Johnson said:

"You are the heirs of a great tradition. Those who have preceded you out of these gates into the world of service, have preserved the freedom of the seas for us and our friends, and have denied them to our enemies. They have given freely of their all to achieve the great mission of the United States Navy, which today remains as significant and as honorable as ever."

"Under the leadership of those who are at the helm of the United States Navy today and with your own example of devotion to duty and to the ideals of our country, you and those who will follow in your tradition will continue to perform in glory the historic and honorable role of the Naval Academy in the defense of our country. America can be confident that the United States Navy, working harmoniously with the other members of the defense family, the Army and the Air Force, will give our country strength; and with strength will come peace and honor."

SC Group Commended

Commendations for the establishment of communications facilities at The Hague for U.S. representatives attending recent meetings of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Military and Defense Committees have been forwarded to members of the European Command Signal Corps Detachment which set up and operated the equipment during the international conferences.

The praise came from General Omar N. Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; from General Thomas T. Handy, Commander-in-Chief of the European Command; Maj. Gen. Jerry V. Matejka, EUCOM Chief Signal Officer; and Col. Bruce W. Bidwell, senior Military Attache to the American Embassy in The Hague.

Army Combat Boots

The Army is preparing to give a new look to remaining stocks of World War II combat boots by adding a plastic coating which will improve their appearance and make them more resistant to water.

The combat boot, consisting of an ankle-high laced shoe with a two-buckle cuff sewed on the top, was made with the smooth side of the leather inside and the flesh or rough side on the outside. This design was adopted by the Army so that the boot would be easier to get on and off, so that scratches would not penetrate the smooth side, and to allow for generous "dubbing" with grease.

Since the war the Quartermaster Corps has been interested in developing a finish for the combat boot which would improve its appearance and allow it to take a good shine. Now a process has been devised by which a plastic coating may be applied to the exterior surfaces, either by brushing or spraying. Tests conducted at Ft. Dix, N. J., showed that the coating wears well, takes a good polish, and improves the water-repellency of the leather without recourse to dubbing.

Deputy Post C.O.

Col. Harold R. Duffie has been appointed Deputy Post Commander of Fort Eustis, Va., it is announced by Brig. Gen. Walter J. Muller, USA, post commander.

Colonel Duffie, a veteran of 36 years in the military service, has just returned from Okinawa where he was Transportation Officer of the Ryukus Command and commanding officer of the Port of Naha and Sub-Port White Beach.

The eight-week test, announced by General Mark Clark, USA, Chief of Army Field Forces, will be held in the desert area at the Naval Air Station near El Centro, where summer temperatures average 120 degrees during daylight hours.

The Task Force will consist of detachments from Army Field Forces Board No. 1 at Fort Bragg, N. C.; Army Field Forces Board No. 2 at Fort Knox, Ky.; the Quartermaster Board at Fort Lee, Va., and administrative troops from the Sixth Army area in the western United States. Elements will arrive at the western testing location between 1 and 15 June. Over 150 officers, enlisted men, and civilian employees will be used in the operation which is scheduled to last until 15 Aug.

Vessels Transferred

Delivery of the first two warships to a North Atlantic Treaty country, under terms of the Mutual Defense Assistance Program, was effected at the U. S. Naval Shipyard, Boston, Mass., on 1 June, 1950, when two U. S. destroyed escorts were transferred to the custody of the Netherlands government, and commissioned as units of the Netherlands Royal Navy.

The two warships, the USS Burrows (DE-105) and the USS Rinehart (DE-196), are modern 1,240-ton vessels, built in 1943 and 1944, and are particularly designed for convoying and antisubmarine duty. They were withdrawn from the Atlantic Reserve Fleet at Green Cove Springs, Fla., and had been completely overhauled and refitted at the Boston Naval Shipyard during the past two months.

Limited Duty Selections

The Bureau of Naval Personnel has announced the results of the 1950 Limited Duty Officer Program which selected outstanding candidates to fill commissioned officer vacancies by permanent appointment in the Regular Navy. Although previous selections were authorized for grades up to and including the grade of commander, selections for the 1950 program were made only to the grade of ensign.

The 1950 program selected personnel for the deck, ordnance, administration, engineering, hull, electronics, aviation operations, aviation ordnance, aviation engineering, aviation electronics, supply and civil engineer fields in the line and staff corps. Appointments in the grade of ensign will be offered immediately to those selectees serving in ranks or rates below ensign. Selectees now serving in the temporary grade of ensign or above may delay acceptance of appointment until just prior to the time they will be eligible for appointment to the rank of lieutenant (jg) for limited duty. The latter group may, however, request their appointments any time prior to their promotion on the LDO list.

Those selected for the 1950 Limited Duty Officer program are as follows:

Adm. Ward to Air Univ.

Rear Adm. Frank T. Ward, jr., has been assigned as Chief, Naval Advisory Group, Air University, Maxwell AFB, Ala., vice Rear Adm. H. S. Duckworth.

Admiral Duckworth, who had been on duty with the Air University since 23 June, 1948, was transferred to the Aviation Plans Section, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

Admiral Ward comes to the Air University from Jacksonville, Fla., where he had been assigned to the duty of Chief of Staff to the Commander Fleet Air, Jacksonville Naval Air Station, for approximately one year.

We're trying to catch up with costs

Increases in the price you pay for telephone service are far behind the increases in wages and other costs

THE PRICE of telephone service has gone up much less than the price of almost everything else you buy. It has gone up far less than the cost of providing the service. Take wages, which are the biggest item, as an example.

Rates Up Far Less Than Wages — The increases granted so far in rates for telephone service are only about half the increases of $728,000,000 in telephone wages during the ten-year period through 1949.

In addition to wages, the costs of materials and almost everything else used in furnishing telephone service have risen substantially.

These things mean higher operating costs. They also mean higher construction costs and hence increase the amount of investment for each new telephone that is added.

Commands Mitchel AFB

You'll get special attention from the Journal advertisers—they cater to Service personnel.

USAF Reserve Officers

Applications for reappointment for an additional five-year tour in the U.S. Air Force Reserve are being forwarded to AF Reserve officers in all categories whose present appointments will terminate on or after 28 June.

All such officers, whose appointments are still valid, will be tendered reappointments upon expiration of their present commissions, provided they pass required physical examinations and comply with other necessary administrative actions.

The Air Adjutant General, USAF Headquarters, will be responsible for the reappointment of members of the Honorary Air Reserve, and personnel serving on extended active duty in a Warrant Officer status, who hold a USAF Reserve appointment.

The Commanding General of the Continental Air Command will be responsible for the reappointment of all Reservists on inactive duty and for all Reserve officers who are serving on active duty as enlisted personnel.

Reappointment will be made in the same grade as that held upon expiration of the current appointment and will be effective the day following termination of the current appointment.

Air Colonel Retires

Col. Ralph J. Erickson, assistant to the Vice Commander of the First Air Force, Mitchel AFB, N.Y., who was with the 7th Air Force at Hickam Field when Pearl Harbor was attacked, was retired 31 May after 30 years' service.

Colonel Erickson, who had been serving as Air Adjutant General of the First Air Force since June 1946, was appointed assistant to the Vice Commander last February.

Training in Industry

The USAF Institute of Technology this week announced opening of opportunities for officer training-in-industry in the field of guided missiles and sent out the call for qualified applicants to give serious consideration to work in this special area.

USAFIT's Industrial Training branch said that guided missile programs, aimed at delivering officer specialists for the AF's missile research and development and engineering activities, have been arranged through the cooperation of American industrial firms engaged in missile work. Training in these selected industrial organizations is expected to begin with initial classes entering in September 1950.

Assignments in-industry for the guided missile work will be of a year's duration. Officer applicants must possess an MS degree in Aeronautical, Electrical, Mechanical or Chemical Engineering, and specialization in Aerodynamics, Thermodynamics, Servomechanisms or Electronics is desirable. Applicants must also be in the grade of lieutenant, captain or major, and must be regular Air Force.

This new program will put the accent on training in the development, production and testing of guided missiles, USAFIT spokesmen said. Applications should be prepared as prescribed in AF Regulation 50-15 and forwarded to the Commandant, USAF Institute of Technology, Wright-Patterson AFB, Dayton, Ohio.

AF Generals Depart

Maj. Gen. John M. Welkert, Vice Commander of the Far East Air Forces for two and one-half years, and Brig. Gen. Alfred R. Maxwell, Vice Commander of the Twentieth Air Force on Okinawa, are scheduled to depart for reassignments in the United States.

Headquarters FEAF announced that General Welkert, to leave about 4 June, has been assigned as Commandant of the Air Tactical School at Tyndall AFB, Fla. His successor will be Maj. Gen. Laurence C. Craigie, now Commandant of the U.S. Air Force Institute of Technology at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio. General Craigie is expected to arrive in Tokyo in June.

General Maxwell has been reassigned to the Research and Development Command in Washington, effective 1 July. He will be succeeded by Brig. Gen. Charles Y. Banfill, now Deputy Commandant of the Armed Forces Staff College at Norfolk, Va. He is due to report 5 Aug.

Wings for RAF Pilot

Brig. Gen. John B. Ackerman, USAF, Air Attache at London, England, recently presented U.S. Pilot Wings to Flight Lt. Anthony G. Brand of the Royal Air Force, who has been serving with the USAF on exchange status. The award was recommended by Lt. Col. Paul K. Blair, commanding officer of the 97th Bombardment Group, with which Flight Lieutenant Brand served for two years.

New AF Lt. Gen.

The President this week nominated Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner, commanding general of the Air Proving Ground, Eglin AFB, Fla., to be a lieutenant general and serve as commanding general of the Alaskan three-Service Command, replacing Lt. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, who will report to USAF Headquarters. The change is expected to be made in July.

General Kepner, 57, served four years in the Marine Corps from 1909 to 1913 and in 1916 served in the Indiana National Guard. He was commissioned a second lieutenant of Cavalry 14 June 1917 and during World War I commanded a company at Chateau-Thierry, and a battalion in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive.

He entered the Air Service in Oct. 1920. An expert on "lighter than air" craft, he has flown in numerous international balloon races.

During World War II, General Kepner was in command of the Eighth Fighter Command in Europe and in August 1944 became commanding general of the Second Bombardment Division of the Eighth Air Force, later being named to head the Eighth Air Force, from which he moved to become commanding general of the Ninth Air Force. In Jan. 1946, he was named Deputy Commander for Army and Navy aviation for "Operations Crossroads."

He has held his present post at the Air Proving Ground since 6 Aug. 1948. General Kepner has been a permanent major general since 19 Feb. 1948, with date of rank from 5 Dec. 1942.

General Twining has been commanding general of the Alaskan Air Command since Oct. 1945. A graduate from the U.S. Military Academy in June, 1917, he is 52 years old and has been a pilot since 1924. Among his World War II assignments was command of the 15th Air Force in Italy and commander of the Mediterranean Allied Strategic Air Forces.

General Twining was sent to Alaska from duty as commanding general of the Air Materiel Command, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio.

No specific assignment has been announced for General Twining. His name has been mentioned prominently in connection with the post of Vice Chief of Staff, currently held by Lt. Gen. Lauris Norstad in an "acting" capacity. It had been rumored previously that General Norstad might be given the Alaskan assignment.

Housing at Air Base

The first 24 units of a million-dollar housing project at Bergstrom AFB, Tex., were scheduled for completion this week. The entire project will consist of 16 two-story units with 128 apartments.

WORLD LEADER IN JETS.... LOCKHEED

The largest producer of jet aircraft in the world is Lockheed Aircraft Corporation. Lockheed has produced jets at the rate of at least one a day—every day for more than five years.

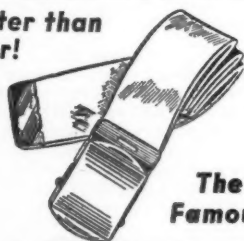

Lockheed built the first U.S. operational jet—the F-80 Shooting Star; the two-place T-33 and the TO-1 jet trainer (America's only jet trainer airplanes), and the long-range, twin-jet F-90 jet Penetration Fighter.

Now, for high-altitude interception, Lockheed is building the new F-94 All-Weather Interceptors, capable of fast and rugged, around-the-clock, around-the-calendar defense.

The experience obtained in the design, development and manufacture of these practical jet airplanes is invaluable in the Lockheed laboratories where the planes of the future are taking shape today.

SATURDAY, 3 JUNE 1950

"As we honor our heroic dead, let us, the living, resolve to match their sacrifices if needed, so that we can insure our heritage of freedom under democracy for future generations."—GENERAL HOYT S. VANDENBERG, USAF CHIEF OF STAFF, MEMORIAL DAY, 1950.

OUR PRIORITY LIST

1. Early construction of adequate Government quarters for commissioned and enlisted personnel at all permanent stations, supplemented by satisfactory legislation to encourage private building of dwelling units near Service establishments.
2. Improved retirement pay for wounded and disabled personnel.
3. Continuance and extension of medical and dental care for families of Service personnel; provision for education at Government expense of children of Service personnel on duty at stations where suitable free schools are not available; and survivor benefits for dependents.
4. Restoration of military exemptions from Federal income tax, broadened to include all retired pay from taxation.
5. Early attainment and continued maintenance of a fully-manned 70-group Air Force.
6. Prompt construction of a radar fence and air warning net to cover all avenues of hostile air approach.
7. Rapid expansion of our submarine fleet and accelerated development of anti-submarine vessels and equipment, with continued experimentation and construction of new Navy types.
8. Organization and training of a balanced Mobile Ground Force, including air-borne and amphibious troops, of sufficient strength and ready, with complete and modern equipment, for immediate action in an emergency.
9. Development and improvement of the organization and training of the National Guard, Organized Reserves and other civilian components of the Armed Forces, with appropriate training facilities, and restoration of inactive training pay for all elements.
10. Continued scientific research and development in all new and unconventional devices and methods of warfare backed by industry and labor kept constantly ready and trained through production and educational orders.
11. Close supervision and constant restudy of Service promotion and elimination policies and procedures, to insure the prevention or prompt correction of injustices and inequities.

THE Army and Navy as well as the Air Force are deeply concerned in the development of modern, fast air transports. Such planes are necessary to the direct operation of our fighting forces as well as to the maintenance of the air lines as a valuable auxiliary to the national defense. Great Britain and Canada, through a program of substantial government aid, are well in the forefront in the production of turbo-powered airliners. Our Senate Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, after hearings on the subject, has reported a bill authorizing a maximum of $12,500,000 for government assistance in testing, operating, and modifying whatever advanced transport prototypes our manufacturers may produce. But it cannot be hoped that this will provide a fully adequate program. The British Government is reputed to have spent $300,000,000 on their transport program. Genuine help could be provided by a comprehensive program of government purchase of transport prototypes. The President's Air Policy Commission, headed by the present Air Secretary Finletter, as well as the Joint Congressional Board, recommended government assistance in the development of such aircraft. These facts should be put squarely before the Senate in an effort to broaden the present bill to effective proportions.

THE failure of the Communist youth demonstration in East Berlin to develop into an international incident is due, undoubtedly, largely to the careful precautions taken by the local garrisons of the western powers under the capable direction of Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, USA, American commandant in Berlin. Some months ago the Reds announced that half a million youths from Soviet-controlled East Germany would hold a Whitsuntide celebration in Berlin, culminating in the seizure of West Berlin by the Communists. The immediate declaration of the western powers that any attempt to invade the western sectors of the city would be vigorously resisted by the local police, supported by Allied troops, caused a modification of the Red boast. However, the Allies took no chances, and their troops held open and public training exercises in the suppression of street disorders and riots. This served to put the Soviet-sponsored demonstrators on notice that they would not be tolerated in West Berlin. It is difficult to determine how far the Reds would have gone, if the Allies had not made complete military preparations for any eventuality. However, it seems probable that the Russians would have encouraged any movement to seize all Berlin, provided this could have been accomplished without prematurely involving them in a conflict for which they are not yet ready. On observing the calm and confident attitude of the Allies in preparing to meet any threat of violence, the Reds were content to settle for an eight-hour parade of uniformed, goose-stepping German youngsters, disagreeably reminiscent of the Hitler Youth demonstrations in the heyday of Nazi power. Once again the Allies proved that, in dealing with the Russians, firmness wins.

SIX years ago next Tuesday was D-Day in Europe. On 6 June 1944 there was launched the most powerful joint operation in the history of warfare. American and British land, sea and air forces made a highly successful assault on the Normandy beaches, and began a sustained drive that ended the European war in less than a year. Preceded by many months of careful planning, scheduling and rescheduling troop movements, building great reserves of materiel and manpower, the operation was a masterpiece in concept, preparation and execution. With a heavy concentration of Naval and air bombardment the French shore was ablaze from Bayeux to Cherbourg. Protected by this stupendous fire, wave after wave of assault troops came ashore or were dropped from troop carrier planes. With unsurpassed skill and courage American and British soldiers won a foothold in the face of stubborn German resistance. Beachheads were established and held. Then came the spectacular break-through, the liberation of France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg, the occupation of Central Europe and finally the unconditional German surrender. Perhaps the assault on a continent that occurred six years ago may never be duplicated. Informed professional opinion doubts that a landing of such magnitude on a hostile shore will be possible in the future. New weapons, the atom bomb, and revolutionary techniques may render obsolete amphibious operations on such a magnificent scale. Regardless of what the future may hold it is clear that the Normandy landings will forever rank with the most important, most successful and most decisive operations in military history.

Letters to the Editor

Letters expressing individual views and intended for publication should be accompanied by the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as evidence of good faith. If the writer desires to omit his name when the letter is published, he should so state. THE JOURNAL may find it necessary to use only extracts from longer letters so that more viewpoints may be represented.

ROTC & Academy Credit

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

One writer (Letters to the Editor, 20 May issue), asks consideration for pay credit for early Guard service, saying that he hopes that Academy service also is credited and that "no one begrudges it." His cordial attitude is appreciated and his claim is acknowledged to have logic, since practically all manner of service affiliation is now credited for pay. The other letter, however, belies the thought that "no one begrudges" Academy service credit, for that writer says "no consideration should be given" unless ROTC service is considered.

I have long felt that there is good basis to credit ROTC membership, or a part thereof, as service for pay purposes, since the young man taking that course is definitely contributing to the Nation's future security. The question of his personal expense, however, is another matter, for voluntarily or through failure in competition he foregoes the Academy, and voluntarily attends a college that points him to a number of professions other than the military. With him, the military usually becomes incidental to some other goal. If, however, he ends up in the Army, his ROTC experience can fairly be considered for longevity pay purposes, but the question whether he paid for his own college or went through under some scholarship, should hardly matter. The Academy student has, in effect, simply gone through college as a soldier under a government scholarship.

The relative conditions of service, however, ought to be understood for, excepting such ROTC colleges as V.M.I., the Academy cadet spends far more time with broader scope on things military, plus a comparable period on liberal education. If the writer on ROTC credit wishes it to be fully equalized with Academy service then he might presumably agree for consistency's sake that ROTC members should, like Academy students, be vested by law as members of the permanent establishment, placed under the command of their PMS&T's, subjected to the Articles of War, restricted as to marital status, controlled in military manner as to class attendances, duty hours, apparel, the most minor behavior and vacations, obligated by oath to serve for eight years, and made subject to shortened courses and early graduation into commission without alternative, or liable to serve in status quo as any other soldier, wherever and for as long as the authorities deem required by an emergency. With these things being equal, ROTC and Academy service could fairly be considered identically for credit.

Retired to Retired Grade

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Congratulations!

The news concerning the right to enlist in Grade E-7 for Reserve Officers, such as myself, was the most deserving of them all, including the increase in pay.

A million thanks for all your efforts in this direction, and I know I speak for many of my fellow officers.

One Year Ago

Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, commanding the Second Army, has announced the appointment of a new Inspector General, Col. Clarence C. Park, to replace Col. W. R. Watson, who is leaving for Germany. Colonel Park served as IG of the Third Army from 1943 to 1946, seeing action in France and Germany. He returned to the United States in 1946 and was appointed IG of Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., in January, 1947.

THE JOURNAL saluted: Brig. Gen. Donald C. Cubbison, USA, who will command the Field Artillery School, Ft. Sill; Comdr. Charles E. Rosendahl, USN, who will come to duty in the Office of the Secretary of the Navy as adviser on lighter-than-air matters, and Col. Arnold W. Jacobsen, USMC, who has been ordered to duty as executive officer in the office of the Quartermaster, USMC.

25 Years Ago

Capt. Barron P. Du Bois, Supply Corps, USN, who will be placed on the retired list on 9 July, 1925 after 30 years' service, entered the service 6 June 1895. He has performed nine years and six months' shore duty and some twenty years of shore duty. His last assignment was at the Naval Academy.

50 Years Ago

We learn that with the introduction of metal bulkheads and partitions in our newer ships a marked increase in rheumatic complaints is noticeable, and it is believed that the final result of the abolition of wood in the quarters of men and officers will prove so disastrous that an effort is not unlikely toward the restoration of the wooden bulkheads and doors which have proved so efficient in the past.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Louis Johnson Analyzed—Two national magazines present articles on Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson in their June issues. The American Mercury has for its lead article a piece "Defense Secretary Louis Johnson" by James A. Bell, a newspaper reporter, while Coronet uses one by Tris Coffin, a Washington Columnist, entitled "Louis Johnson: Bulldog of U. S. Defense." While much is made of his position in politics and the enemies he has made, both writers agree that progress has been made under his regime as Secretary.

Says the American Mercury article: "What Johnson has accomplished in the past year is a matter for heated debate. But even his most violent critics admit that the national military establishment is more nearly unified today than it was a year ago. There is less friction everywhere, from the Joint Chiefs of Staff downward. Gradually, having snarled and bit at one another, the services have passed through the stiff-legged sniffling stage to the point where they now seem ready to lie down together. All of this has not been accomplished smoothly, which is obvious from the raucous, roaring record of the year; but Johnson's policy of bashing heads together has been more effective, albeit more noisy, than the quiet intellectual prodding of the late Secretary Forrestal."

The Coronet article reports: "Johnson has done a remarkable job in two fields—military strategy and administration. He has also acquired more enemies than all the rest of the Cabinet combined. When Johnson came to the Pentagon Building last year, the Joint Chiefs of Staff were deadlocked on strategy. The Air Force was preaching that an armada of B-36 bombers, capable of striking any target in the world, could win a war. The Navy retorted that giant aircraft carriers, surrounded by protective warships, were the secret to victory. Meanwhile, the Army insisted that foot troops were needed to win objectives and hold them. Bluntly, Johnson told the Joint Chiefs: 'We are not going to dissipate our strength by having two or three different strategies. That will eat up money we can't afford to waste.' Then he laid down the law."

Time Pieces for No. 1 Grad—Ensign Robert R. Monroe, who received his commission yesterday as the top man in the graduating class of 691 at the U. S. Naval Academy, should have little difficulty being on time for future assignments. Included among the prizes he received at the Awards Parade on 31 May were a gold watch, a clock, a wrist watch and a pocket watch.

Ensign Monroe, who entered the Academy through appointment from the Secretary of the Navy after competitive examination in the Naval Reserve, plans to enter the submarine service.

Graduated second in the 1950 class was Charles Dobony, who will report to Pensacola, Fla., after spending the summer at the Academy indoctrinating plebes. Third in the class was David S. Boyd, whose prizes included a sword and two wrist watches. He is the son of Col. and Mrs. Allan S. Boyd, USA-Ret.

Dentists of the Half Century—The Army, Navy and Air Force have named a "dentist of the half century" for a special mid-century issue of The Journal of the American Dental Association. Selected as the Army honoree was the late Col. Robert T. Oliver, singled out for his efforts in the establishment of the Army Dental Corps in 1901. He was the first examining and supervising dental surgeon in the Army and was Chief Dental Surgeon of the AEF during World War I. Colonel Oliver, who died in 1937 at the age of 69, was elected president of the American Dental Association in 1931.

Dr. Emory A. Bryant, who was retired from the Navy in 1929 and who died at the age of 72 in 1935, was named the Navy's "dentist of the half century." He was the first officer appointed to the Navy Dental Corps in 1912 and is renowned for his invention of various dental devices.

The Air Force selection was Maj. Gen. George R. Kennebeck, the first chief of the Air Force Dental Service and the first dental officer to achieve two-star rank in the Air Force.

Books for the Army—The story of how more than 225 million books were distributed to American soldiers all over the world between 1941 and 1946 is told in Books for the Army, by John Jamieson, published this week by Columbia University Press. Mr. Jamieson, who started as a draftee and rose to the top level of planning and policy making as one of the chief assistants to the Chief of the Library Section, U. S. Army, tells the story of that quarter of a billion volumes and of the people whose job it was to see that the service men got them—the men and women of the Army Library Service. It was a tremendous task, selecting and buying books and magazines for a vast far-flung fighting army, and Mr. Jamieson goes into its many and varied details in this 335-page book.

Airline Travel Gains—With nearly five months of 1950 on the record, indications are that in 1950 the domestic trunk airlines will show substantial gains over the record-setting year of 1949, according to Dr. Lewis C. Sorrell, Director of Economic Research of the Air Transport Association. "The domestic trunk airlines in 1950 will make substantial gains in traffic over the year 1949. Current indicators suggest," said Dr. Sorrell, "the trunk airlines will realize about 7,300,000,000 passenger miles in 1950, as compared with 6,562,580,000 in 1949—an increase of about 11%."

"Mail traffic is not expected to register substantial increases," he continued, "but both air express and air freight will record increases. As a result, total airline revenue ton-miles of traffic can be expected to rise from 801,508,000 in 1949 to 889,806,000 in 1950, an increase of some 11%. Total operating revenues may reach $501,600,000 as compared with $460,000,000 in 1949. With some further reduction anticipated in the unit expenses of operation, net operating profits should approximate $25 million, or about the same as 1949."

Signal Corps—The following Signal Corps officers will attend the eighth class of the Armed Forces Staff College beginning 28 Aug: Lieutenant Colonels Orman G. Charles, James H. Fulton, William E. Heltzel and Roland H. Mapes.

Army Nurses—Capt. Jaynie E. Belcher, ANC, Chief Nurse at the Tokyo General Hospital Annex since April 1948, has been relieved of assignment at the hospital and reassigned to Brooke General Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., until her retirement this summer.

Draft Eisenhower Activity—This week, there were plain signs that "determined efforts" are underway to place General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower's name in nomination before the Republican National Convention in 1952. Representative Hugh D. Scott, jr. (R-Pa.), former Republican National Chairman, said that General Eisenhower will be "drafted" and added that he will find it "impossible" to refuse the draft.

It was revealed, also, that a paid advertising campaign to "draft" General Eisenhower has been launched by a New York publicity man, John Orr Young, who started a similar campaign for Wendell L. Willkie in 1940. An advertisement in support of General Eisenhower for President has been published in the public notices column of the New York Herald Tribune and Mr. Young indicated that large advertisements are to be placed in newspapers and magazines as contributions are received.

Through all this, General Eisenhower has remained silent. He has said nothing directly relating to his running for presidency since his celebrated letter to Mr. Leonard V. Finder, publisher of the Manchester, N. H., Union-Leader, in January of 1948. In that letter, it is recalled, General Eisenhower declared: "It is my conviction that the necessary and wise subordination of the military to civil power will be best sustained, and our people will have greater confidence that it is so sustained, when lifelong professional soldiers, in the absence of some obvious and overriding reason, abstain from seeking high political office." He added that "nothing in the international or domestic situation especially qualified for the most important office in the world a man whose adult years have been spent in the country's military forces. At least this is true in my case." Concluding, he said "my decision to remove myself completely from the political scene is definite and positive."

At the time the letter was released, some observers maintained that General Eisenhower, in effect, also was spiking the Presidential chances of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur. Those close to General Eisenhower scoffed at this implication and insisted that in this notable communication, the former SHAEF commander was speaking for himself alone.

Two years have passed since the letter was written and in the interim there have been startling world developments and military men have been taking bigger parts in world affairs. Whether or not, if he were called upon by a popular draft at a national political convention to run for President, General Eisenhower would perceive in 1952 some "obvious and overriding reason" is currently providing material for much speculation and discussion. On this point—whether or not General Eisenhower would run—political strategists find much to argue about; on the point of his vote-getting appeal, there is almost universal unanimity that he would be a formidable candidate.

Intelligence Chief—Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, USA, commander of the First Army, has been mentioned prominently as a possible appointee to the post of Director of Central Intelligence, succeeding Rear Adm. R. H. Hillenkoetter, USN, who has been head of the agency for the past three years. General Smith recently underwent an operation for chronic peptic ulcers and is now on sick leave. His health is said to be greatly improved. Because of his familiarity with the Russian point of view, as a result of his service for three years as American Ambassador at Moscow, General Smith is regarded as particularly well qualified to head the Central Intelligence Agency. He was a recent caller at the White House, but no announcement was made as to the purpose of the visit.

Dummy Named "Lumpy"—A life-sized dummy named "Lumpy" is doing duty with the Army Quartermaster Corps Climatic Research Laboratory at Lawrence, Mass., in helping to test military sleeping bags. Lumpy, whose name derives from the tendency of his internal stuffing to budge in unpredictable places, is able to spend hours in experimental sleeping bags without complaint, yet provides technicians with answers to many problems they are seeking in connection with their research work.

Lumpy's skin, consisting of long woolen underwear, is lined with electrical heat units. Controls make it possible to increase or diminish the amounts of heat at any section of his body. The input is carefully metered so that heat loss at any point may be determined. The manikin gives information concerning types of design and dimensions of sleeping bags which afford the best protection against external cold; the effects of heat loss involved in carrying compressibility of insulating materials, and other pertinent facts. Twenty-four bags of different dimensions have been designed by the Research and Development Branch of the Office of the Quartermaster General for this study.

Anti-Submarine Warfare Funds—The $50,000,000 for anti-submarine warfare included in the total $350,000,000 supplemental request for the fiscal 1951 defense budget will provide for construction of three prototype motor mine sweepers to cost $1,000,000 each and for the conversion of 139 other ships.

Of the $50,000,000 sought for anti-submarine warfare, almost half is to be used for 10 "guppy" type conversions at a cost of $2,220,000 each. Armament changes are to be made on 102 DD's and 24 DDR's. Conversions are to be made also on three destroyer-escorts at a total cost of $6,000,000.

During fiscal year 1951, the new construction and conversion program provided for in the supplemental request will require a total of $15,920,000.

Army Finance Department—Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Foster, USA, Chief of Finance, has announced that Maj. Ray C. Lewis, FD, and Capt. John L. Clancy, FD, have been selected for graduate training in Business Administration at Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania commencing this month. Major Lewis is currently stationed at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., and Captain Clancy is stationed at the Army Finance Center, St. Louis.

Army Medical Service Corps—Col. Othmar F. Goriup, Chief, Medical Service Corps, met with the Executive Council of the Federated Societies of Experimental Biologists recently in Atlantic City, N. J. Colonel Goriup was also a delegate to the American Pharmaceutical Convention in that city 7 May, as well as a delegate to the Decennial Meeting of the U. S. Pharmacopoeial Convention, held in Washington, D. C., 9 and 10 May.

19,000th Carrier Landing—Lt. (jg) John E. Ford, USN, made the 19,000th landing aboard the carrier USS Valley Forge, 6 May. A cake was baked in honor of the occasion and Lieutenant Ford was congratulated by the executive officer and the commander of Air Group Four in a brief ceremony in the ship's wardroom. The Valley Forge was en route to relieve naval units in the Western Pacific and Far Eastern waters.

Foreign Affairs—In an address to members of Congress on Wednesday Secretary of State Dean Acheson hailed the adoption by Atlantic Pact nations of the principle of balanced collective forces. He said it was "the only way in which forces can be developed to meet successfully any initial attack, and to carry through to a successful conclusion any war that is forced upon us."

The program of "balanced collective forces," agreed upon by the twelve foreign ministers of the Atlantic allies at the recent London meeting, would provide integrated security, without the duplication that would occur if each country maintained a completely balanced, independent military establishment. The Atlantic community would look to each country to make the best contribution possible to the common defense, in accordance with a common plan.

Mr. Acheson discussed this phase of North Atlantic security in a highly optimistic report which he made to a special meeting of the members of both Houses in the auditorium of the Library of Congress. While the Secretary stressed the program for mutual defense he expressed his disbelief that war was imminent. He said there was nothing that any of the foreign ministers had to say at the London conference "which indicated that there is any immediate danger of war."

The problem, the Secretary said, was to meet a threat "which, in view of the known program of the Kremlin, will exist, unless we act now to prepare our defenses against aggression." He said that so long as any dictatorship builds powerful armed forces democracies must maintain adequate defenses.

Mr. Acheson expressed his approval of the French proposal for joint utilization of the coal and steel resources of France and Western Germany. He said the project was "momentous and courageous, and if properly developed would open the way for a new era in Europe."

There were indications that the Secretary of State, while not minimizing current international tensions, regarded the situation as materially improved. Gratifying reports of economic and political recovery in Western Europe were received. A trend toward closer co-operation was noted not only in the French proposal for pooling production and distribution of coal and steel of France and Western Germany, but also in measures for the co-ordination of trade and currency transactions.

Surprisingly enough, Russia has indicated a desire for resumption of east-west trade on a major scale. A Soviet offer to exchange large quantities of Russian grain for Western European products, free of export controls, was announced in Switzerland by Prof. Gunnar Myrdal, of Sweden, executive secretary of the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe.

Soviet delegates will participate in a European grain conference called by the commission. Mr. Myrdal indicated that the proposal might be extended to cover other raw materials needed by the west. There is, however, no probability of any early relaxation of existing controls on exchange of strategic industrial products.

Fresh from a visit to the Kremlin, Secretary General Trygve Lie, of the United Nations, conferred on Monday with President Truman and Secretary Acheson. No details of the conference were revealed, but it is understood that the conversation was exploratory in character, and dealt with suggestions for reducing areas of disagreement in the United Nations and easing the tensions of the cold war.

Mr. Lie has favored replacing the present delegates from nationalist China, with representatives of the Red regime, which now controls nearly all of that country. The United States will continue to oppose the seating of the Communist delegation, but will not exercise the veto power to prevent such action.

The mammoth Communist youth celebration in East Berlin last weekend passed without serious incident. Hundreds of thousands of youths, many of them young children, poured into Berlin from all parts of the Soviet zone and marched through the rain for eight hours in a giant Red parade.

The demonstration was scarcely distinguishable from the youth parades so characteristic of the Nazi regime. The shirts of the marchers were blue, instead of brown, but many of the other Hitler trappings, with Red overtones, were conspicuous. Anti-American banners were prominently displayed, and songs and speeches proclaimed allegiance to Russia.

The threatened putsch to seize all Berlin failed to materialize. The readiness of the Allies to prevent with force, if necessary, any sallies into the western sectors probably dampened any enthusiasm the Reds may have had for such an adventure. Allied authorities were gratified at the lack of untoward incidents, but warned against complacency. They suggest that the youth demonstration is probably only one of a series of episodes planned by Russia for the ultimate purpose of evicting the western powers from Berlin.

In an espionage trial that began in Prague this week the Czechoslovakian government accused several of its citizens of traitorous collaboration with Americans. Included among the United States citizens with whom the Czechs were charged with being involved in the alleged espionage plot were the late Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt, several diplomatic attaches, and news correspondents. Most of the Americans accused of spying are no longer in Czechoslovakia, and no effort was made to arrest any of those still there.

In a minor riot in Tokyo four American soldiers were attacked, but not seriously hurt, by a mob of Japanese Communists. The Reds had scheduled a rally on 30 May at the same time and place that American service personnel were to hold a Memorial Day observance. The police prevented the Red rally until the American ceremonies were concluded. The Communists, in an ugly mood, denounced the occupation authorities and tried to rough up the Americans. Ring leaders of the rioters were arrested and the disorder suppressed. The incident probably was inspired by recent charges of the Cominform that Japanese Communists were too passive.

Weather Language—Under the flags of nine nations, flying over the weather testing grounds at Payerne, Switzerland, international meteorologists are working together during the months of May and June 1950, speaking the same language—WEATHER. These scientists, all members of the International Meteorological Organization (IMO), came from the United States, England, France, Netherlands, Belgium, Finland, Switzerland, Norway and Sweden to test and compare upper air measuring devices. From these comparison tests reports, the Panel on meteorological equipment of the International Meteorological Organization will be able to establish a standard by which the upper air weather reports of each country can be accurately interpreted and fully utilized by the weather services of all nations.

Maj. Paul M. Huber, International Advisory Officer for the 2105th Air Weather Group, Wiesbaden, Germany attended the tests as representative of Col. Nicholas H. Chavasse, Commanding Officer of the 2105th Air Weather Group. Other members of the United States delegation included representatives from the United States Weather Bureau, Washington, D. C. Air Weather Service at Tinker Air Force Base, Oklahoma, and civilian engineers from the United States Signal Corps Engineering Laboratory at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey.

Famous Fort Leased—A large section of Ft. Huachuca, Ariz., famous Army installation, deeded last year to the State, has been turned over to a non-profit corporation for development as a permanent community and recreation area. Maj. Gen. A. M. Tuthill of the National Guard said that a substantial area is to be retained for Guard training.

Shift Gen. Lemnitzer—Maj. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, USA, is reported to be scheduled to command the 11th Airborne Division in the near future. At present he is military member of Foreign Assistance Co-ordinating Committee, set up under the Mutual Defense Assistance Program. This committee is responsible for co-ordinating American policies in connection with the security of the Atlantic Pact countries. General Lemnitzer has taken an active part in planning American assistance in the rearmament of Western Europe.

Gen. MacArthur Interview—An article in the June Cosmopolitan repeats what it terms a "well authenticated report" that when General of the Army Douglas MacArthur retires from his post as supreme commander in Japan he will accept a $100,000 a year position with Remington Rand Inc. However the article quotes the general as saying that his duties in Japan and the increasing tension elsewhere in Asia made it essential that he remain at his post. The general is reported to have said:

"If I returned home even for a short few weeks I believe word would spread throughout the Orient that the United States was abandoning the Pacific, that the set-backs in China were forcing us to pull back."

Admiral Gets Far Eastern Post—Rear Adm. Albert K. Morehouse has been ordered to duty as Chief of Staff to the Commander, Far Eastern Naval Command in Tokyo, marking the first time that the job has been assigned to a flag officer since the war. An aviator, Admiral Morehouse was until recently Chief of Staff to the Commander, Air Force, Atlantic Fleet. He was promoted to his present rank on 1 March this year.

Quartermaster Corps—Col. Hartwell M. Elder will assume command of the Mira Loma Quartermaster Depot, Calif., 27 July, and Col. Alfred B. Denniston, Office Secretary of Defense, Washington, D. C., will assume duties at the Staff and Faculty, Army War College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., 1 July.

Col. Robert A. Howard, jr., presently Commanding Officer of the Quartermaster Purchasing Division, Chicago, Ill., on 21 June will report for duty to the Office, Secretary of Defense, Washington, D. C.

The following officers upon completion of present course at The Industrial College of the Armed Forces, Washington, D. C., in July 1950 will be transferred to stations indicated: Lt. Cols. Aaron W. Beeman and Edward S. Ehlen to Office, Chief of Staff, Washington, D. C.; Lt. Cols. Bruce E. Kendall and Julius D. Stanton to Office, Quartermaster General, Washington, D. C.; Lt. Col. Charles P. Bellican to Office, Joint Chiefs of Staff, Washington, D. C.; and Lt. Col. John H. Heil, jr., to Atlanta General Depot, Ga.

Infantry Center—Col. John D. Frederick, Army Field Forces board No. 3, Ft. Benning, Ga., will leave the Infantry Center about 20 July to report for duty at Bremerhaven, Germany. Colonel Frederick, who at various times, has been executive officer, chief of testing and chief of the analysis and coordination department at the board, was a high-level official in the 1946 Bikini Atoll atomic test, Operation Cross.

Army Dental Corps—Col. Lynn C. Dirksen, DC, has been appointed commanding officer, Central Dental Laboratory, Army Medical Center, according to an announcement by Maj. Gen. Paul H. Streit, Commanding General. Colonel Dirksen, former commanding officer, Army Central Dental Laboratory, St. Louis, Mo., succeeds Lt. Col. Maurice E. Washburn, who will leave soon for assignment in Germany.

New Carrier Plane—A powerful new Navy carrier-type attack plane, designed to combine the high speed of jet propulsion with the fast takeoff performance of conventional propeller-driven aircraft, is undergoing initial flight tests at the Douglas El Segundo, Calif., plant. Designated the XA2D and named the Skyhawk, the plane was built for the Navy by the Douglas Aircraft Corporation. It is powered by the Navy-sponsored Allison turboprop engine.

The Skyhawk's 5,500-horsepower twin-turbine engine, built for the Navy by the Allison Division of General Motors, develops more horsepower on takeoff than any other U. S. engine now being flown. The Navy's 60-ton experimental seaplane, the XP5Y-1, which flew for the first time last month at San Diego, Calif., utilizes four of the Allison T-40 engines. The Skyhawk, which was flown for the first time on 26 May, resembles in general appearance its Douglas predecessor, the AD-1 Skyraider. Equipped with folding wings and tailhook assembly for carrier operation, it may be armed with a variety of airborne weapons, including rockets, bombs and aerial torpedoes slung from wing racks.

Portrait of Admiral Oman—A portrait of the late Rear Adm. Charles Malden Oman, MC, USN, was unveiled at the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md., by Mrs. Oman last evening 2 June, during brief ceremonies attended by service and civilian friends of the family and by senior Navy medical officers on duty in the area, with their wives. The portrait was a gift by Mrs. Oman to the Navy Medical Department and was presented by the Surgeon General, Rear Adm. Clifford A. Swanson, to the Navy Medical Center, where it will hang from the south wall of the lounge just off the main lobby, facing the main entrance.

The Surgeon General, in his presentation address, eulogized the memory of the eminent Navy doctor with these words: "In 1942 Doctor Oman commissioned and was the first Commanding Officer of this National Naval Medical Center. It is fitting that the portrait we here unveil of Doctor Oman should, as a tribute to yesteryear, an inspiration for today, and a cherished heritage for tomorrow, adorn the walls of this institution. The record of his service stands as a goal and a challenge for the many young men and women of the Medical Department who now and will in the future serve in the Navy and particularly in this splendid United States Naval Medical Center." Rear Adm. Willcutts, Commanding Officer of the Medical Center, accepted the gift. Rear Adm. Herbert L. Pugh, Deputy Surgeon General, also participated in the program by delivering the introductory remarks.

B-36 Lands Overseas—For the first time, a B-36 has landed outside the North American continent. Three of the huge bombers were flown last week from Carswell AFB, Tex., to Ramey AFB, Puerto Rico. Capt. W. L. Pendergraft and Lts. George E. Cameron and Edward C. Barrett were plane commanders. A fourth plane, under the command of Capt. A. H. Pritchard, jr., also flew last week to Ramey AFB, newly acquired Strategic Air Command installation.

GENERAL Hoyt S. Vandenberg, USAF Chief of Staff, was host at a stag party Wednesday in honor of the Chief of Staff of the Colombian Air Force, Col. Gabriel Pineras, who concluded a three-days' visit to Washington.

The Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Frank Pace, jr., are to be complimented by the Chief of Staff and Mrs. J. Lawton Collins, who will give a reception for them 7 June.

The annual Spring dinner dance of the Navy Doctors Wives' Club of Washington was held at the Commissioned Officers' Mess, National Naval Medical Center, 19 May. Tables to accommodate members and their guests circled the ballroom which was decorated to simulate an outdoor garden. In the center of the garden was a wishing well into which coins were thrown to attain a wish. Money from the well was directed toward the purchase of a bed for the Soldiers, Sailors, Marines and Air Men's Club.

In the receiving line were Rear Adm. and Mrs. Clifford Swanson, Rear Adm. and Mrs. Morton D. Wilcutts, Rear Adm. and Mrs. Lamont Pugh, and Capt. and Mrs. Frank Kreuz.

Maj. Gen. Thomas H. Green, USA-Ret., former Judge Advocate General of the Army, and Mrs. Green, after traveling most of the time since his retirement in December, left Washington the first of the week for her old family homestead in Moravia, Finger Lake district, where they will spend the summer and which they plan to keep as a summer home.

Lt. Gen. William D. Crittenden, chairman of the Inter-American Defense Board, and Mrs. Crittenden headed the receiving line at the reception given for the new members of the board Monday, and Rear Adm. Osborne B. Hardison, retiring U. S. head of the Board, and Mrs. Hardison gave a dinner last week for Capt. Fernando Almeida de Silva, head of the Brazilian Navy Purchasing office, and Senora de Silva with the latter's successor, Capt. Gerson Machado Soares and Senora de Soares.

Admiral Hardison leaves in July for station in Guam, and Mrs. Hardison and their sons will follow him later. They will spend this week-end attending the University of North Carolina to see their son, Osborne B. Hardison, jr., graduate from his father's alma mater.

Capt. Stanhope C. Ring, USN, has been ordered to the Navy Base at Kwajalein, in the Marshall Islands, and Mrs. Ring and daughter, Susan, whose classes at Holton Arms School were over Tuesday, left Washington Thursday for Coronada, Calif., where they will make their home while the Captain is away, and where they will be joined by son, Billy Ring, when his school terminates shortly.

Mrs. Robert S. Moore, whose husband, Colonel Moore, recently was assigned to

Weddings and Engagements

MAJ. Gen. and Mrs. Laurence S. Kuter, USAF, of Andrews AFB, Washington, D. C. announce the engagement of their daughter, Roxanne, to Mr. Robert B. Williamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Williamson of Bryan, Texas and Washington, D. C.

Miss Kuter made her debut in Washington in 1948. She attended National Cathedral School for Girls, Smith College, McGill University French Summer School and is now a senior at Goucher College in Baltimore. She is a member of Alpha Phi sorority, D.A.R., and the National Society of Arts and Letters.

Mr. Williamson served for three years during the war in the Army with the Armored Forces. He attended Texas A. and M., graduated from the University of Texas, taught Economics at North Carolina State College, Raleigh, N. C. and is now doing graduate work toward his Masters Degree in Economics at George Washington University.

Miss Kuter has chosen her parents' wedding anniversary 8 Sept. for her wedding.

The charm and tradition of the Army were in full play recently at the wedding of Ens. Catharine Morris, only daughter of Col. George W. Morris, USA-Ret., and Mrs. Morris of Camp Hill, Pa., to Lt. Clarence W. McKee, USN, son of Mrs. Clarence W. McKee of Phoenix, Ariz.

Chaplain Charles L. Diamond officiated at the ceremony, which was held in the Post Chapel of the New Cumberland General Depot at 12:30 o'clock.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a cream satin gown with long full skirt and an illusion yoke outlined with lace. A three tiered nylon veil fell from a satin bonnet embroidered in seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white lilacs, gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley. A Duchess lace handkerchief, flown to her recently from Luxembourg, was tucked in one of the long pointed sleeves of her gown.

Mrs. McKee's maid of honor was Ens.

Anne Swingler of Jacksonville, Fla., and the bridesmaids were Ens. Mary Lou Palmer of Washington, D. C., Miss Peggy Huffman and Miss Carla Markham of Columbus, Ohio. Master David Chabalka in a white nylon pique suit was the ring bearer.

Best man for Lt. McKee was Lt. John Freeman and the ushers were Lt. Robert Fisher, Lt. Harry Johns and Lt. Daniel McGee, all classmates of the groom, and Mr. John Butler Morris, brother of the bride.

The young couple left the church under the traditional arch of sabers. A reception followed immediately at the Officers' Club. The bride cut the cake with her father's saber.

Lt. and Mrs. McKee departed from the west coast and will proceed to their new station in Hawaii.

The bride is a niece of Col. Joseph T. Morris, Wright-Patterson AFB, and a cousin of Capt. Harry B. Morris of Columbus, Ohio. She attended the University of Utah, where she was a Delta Delta Delta member and she graduated from Pennsylvania State College. The groom attended the University of California and is a member of this year's class at the Naval General Line School at Newport, R. I.

At high noon, 27 May, at the Naval Communications Chapel, Washington, D. C., Miss Margaret Clifford Gelly, became the bride of Ens. Edward Carson Waller, 3d, USN.

The bride is the daughter of Capt. George Balfour Gelly, USCG-Ret., and Mrs. Gelly of Washington, D. C. Ensign Waller is the son of Mr. Edward Carson Waller of Chicago, and the late Mrs. Waller.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over satin, designed with a sheer yoke with lace applique at the shoulder line, a full gathered skirt and a lace-over-satin train. Her white illusion veil was caught to a cap of the matching lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley, stephanotis and white lilacs centered with a white orchid.

The groom's sister, Mrs. Robert F. Taylor, of Rochester, N. Y., was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Joyce Marie Ebel, Ruth Wilson, Margaret Joyce Forbes and Victoria Brashear, all of Washington. Little Miss Kathy Taylor, the groom's niece, was flower girl.

Ens. Leland R. Stegemerten of Alexandria, Va., was best man. The ushers were Ensigs J. T. Metcalf, jr., USN, of Burlington, Vt., E. J. McQuiston, jr., USN, of Norfolk, Va., A. J. Owens, USN, of Avondale, N. C., and W. C. Stutt, USN, of Baltimore, Md.

Ensign and Mrs. Waller will be at home at 209 Bryant Rd., Navy Point, Pensacola, Fla., where he is undergoing flight training.

On 29 April, in the 300-year-old Providence Church, Heidelberg, Germany, Miss Marguerite Irene Freeman, daughter of Lt. Col. Jay H. Freeman, Transportation Div., Headquarters, EUCOM, and Mrs. Freeman, was married to Pfc. Ronald McCormick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McCormick of Rensselaer, N. Y.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin woven in a shadow floral design in silver thread, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and full scalloped hoop skirt. Her illusion veil was held by a tiara of orange blossoms and seed pearls, and her bouquet was of having to do with the relationship between the proposed warrant officer career plan of the Army and Air Force and the limited duty commissioned officer program of the Navy and Marine Corps. The Chairman of the Personnel Policy Board has also initiated a specific study of all warrant officer programs with a view to establishing uniform policies throughout the Services with respect to such matters as procurement, promotion and separation. A program of this sort was recommended by the Hook Commission when it proposed the establishment of four grades of warrant officers.

Warrant Promotions

"It has now come to my attention that the Departments have individually developed, and in some cases already put into effect, preliminary plans for promotion of warrant officers to the new higher pay grades despite the specific conditions under which the budget was approved. I agree with the Departments that implementation of warrant officer career plans should begin promptly as an indication of our intent to carry out the promise of a vitalized warrant officer program which is implied by the establishment of the new pay grades. However, any such early implementation of preliminary plans must be limited in scope so as not to prejudice consideration of the final plan developed by the Personnel Policy Board and also must be financed within the monetary limitations established for military personnel support.

"For these reasons, and in view of the actions already taken or commitments already made, the following interim policies are established to govern implementation of any preliminary warrant officer career plans made effective prior to the establishment of an over-all policy applicable to all Services.

"1. No promotions to Grades W-4 and W-3 will be made except to the extent that funds can be made available within current ceilings by adjustments in other military personnel programs.

"2. The numbers of warrant officers in each Department promoted to Grades W-4 and W-3 shall not exceed 3 per cent and 7 per cent respectively of the planned warrant officer strength for 30 June 1950 as shown in the budget justifications to Congress for F.Y. 1951.

"3. The sum of the numbers in Grades W-4 and W-3 and W-2 in the Army and Air Force shall not exceed 40% of the total warrant officer strength of the Army and Air Force.

Associated Services Budget

Associated Services for the Armed Forces, national organization formed last month to meet off-post needs of service men and women in this country and abroad, on 1 June made public a budget of $6,652,757 for its 1951 program.

Robert Dechert of Philadelphia, national chairman, said that the program covered in the budget includes 114 clubs and area programs of Associated Services' three member agencies, the Young Men's Christian Association, National Catholic Community Service and National Jewish Welfare Board.

He said that it is a "minimum, streamlined budget which is needed to provide services only in the areas of greater need," and that "it represents savings to the public through coordination of programs, making possible full utilization of agency and community resources."

Of the $6,652,757 gross, he said, earned income from reasonable charges for certain club activities and personal services will provide an estimated $2,902,102, and income from endowments will total an estimated $214,263.

Of the balance, $2,650,000 will be sought through Community Chests throughout the country, with the remaining $800,000 anticipated from non-Chest contributions. The National Budget Committee has approved inclusion of Associated Services in Community Chests, Mr. Dechert said, and communities are being asked to assume a proportionate quota to be sought through Red Feather campaigns for 1951.

Nine Marine Battalions

General Clifton B. Cates has predicted a possible increase in Marine combat units during the coming year.

The Marine Commandant told West Coast reporters that the eight battalions now operated by the Corps may be increased to nine. He said that the Marine Corps has funneled much of its manpower into combat units by trimming and reorganization.

The Corps has previously reshuffled personnel and funds in order to maintain two additional battalions over the Defense Department cutback level, and recently received approval to maintain additional aircraft squadrons.

Comdr. Franklin Wayne Osburn, USN-Ret., died 21 May at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Bethesda, Md., after an illness of 10 days.

Born in Eugene, Ore., in 1882, he entered the U. S. Naval Academy in 1898, graduating with the class of 1902. He served on various ships for a number of years, with two tours of duty in the Far East, one of them during the Russo-Japanese War of 1904-1905. He was on the battleship Georgia when the fleet was sent by President Theodore Roosevelt on its historic tour around South America. He was later stationed at the Boston Naval Yard for two years.

Retired in 1914, he entered the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, mainly to learn the business of banking with the intention of going into a small bank in Oregon, in which his family was interested. He was recalled to active duty at the outbreak of the first World War and served in the Bureau of Steam Engineering at Washington, D. C.

At the end of the War, he returned to New York and became interested in Merchant shipping. He was with the Seas Shipping Co. several years, then became Marine Superintendent of the American-South African Line, until July 1941, when he was called to active duty in the Eastern Sea Frontier and served during the second World War until March 1945, when he returned to the American-South African Line as one of its vice presidents. In May 1947, he retired because of ill health.

He resided in Forest Hills Gardens, L. I., was a member of the Town Hall Club of New York, the Robert Hague Post of the American Legion, the Commissioned Officers' Mess of Brooklyn Navy Yard, and was a charter member of the Army and Navy Club of Washington, D. C. He also belonged to the Naval Order of the United States and took an active interest in the Naval Academy Association of New York. While he was connected with Merchant Shipping, he was a member of the Propeller Club of the Port of New York and of the Association of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers.

Services were held at the Chapel of the Naval Hospital, 25 May, and the next day at the Church-in-the-Gardens, Forest Hills, L. I. Interment will be later, near his old home in Eugene.

He is survived by his widow, Ethel Clarke Osburn, and one son, Clarke W. Osburn.

Graveside services for Maj. Robert Nelson Campbell, USA-Ret., were held 31 May at Arlington National Cemetery, Washington, D. C.

Major Campbell died 27 May at Roan Mountain, Tenn. For the past six years, he had divided his time between the Army and Navy Club in Washington, and a home at Johnson City, Tenn.

After Major Campbell's retirement from the Army, he became successively Deputy Administrator of the Construction Division of N.R.A., and a member of the Public Contracts Board of the Labor Department, before retiring from public service in 1944.

A graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, Major Campbell served in France in World War I.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Beatrice Campbell of Salt Lake City, Utah, two daughters, Mrs. J. L. Graham of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. H. V. Mitchell of 3167 N. 17th

St., Arlington, Va.; and one son, Mr. Robert N. Campbell, Jr., of Canon City, Colo.

Mrs. Henrie Rixey Gibson

Mrs. Henrie Rixey Gibson of 2426 East Lake Drive, Raleigh, N. C., died at her home 20 May after an illness of months.

Stearns of Arlington, Va.; one brother, Col. P. M. Rixey, USMC-Ret., of Alexandria, Va., and a granddaughter, Elizabeth Roycroft Gibson.

She moved to Raleigh in 1946, where she was an active member of Christ Church, president of the Olla Podrida Boon Club, and a member of the Raleigh Woman's Club.

Funeral services were held in the Christ Church 21 May and commitment services with burial in the cemetery in West Point, N. Y., were held 23 May. Both services were conducted by the Reverend Ray Holder, rector of Christ Church, Raleigh.

Pallbearers for the service in Raleigh were: Col. John W. Harrelson, Chancellor of North Carolina State College; Col. Redding Perry, Col. Birdseye, Lt. Col. Howard L. Price, Maj. Harry G. Benion and Mr. Brogden.

Florence Quigley Carr

Florence Quigley Carr, wife of Col. Ernest J. Carr, Inf., USA-Ret., died in Minneapolis, Minn., 16 May after extended illness.

She was born in Minneapolis 10 May 1887. Mrs. Carr stems from pioneer Minnesota forebears. Her paternal grandfather, James Quigley, built one of the first homes in Minneapolis, and operated a hotel near Saint Anthony Falls, which housed refugees from the Sioux Indian uprising in 1862.

Mrs. Carr is survived within her immediate family by her husband, her daughter, Mrs. J. J. Matlin; her mother, Mrs. J. M. Quigley, and two brothers, Mr. James J. Quigley, Saint Cloud, Minn., and Col. Maurice W. Quigley, MC, AUS-Ret., Minneapolis.

Funeral services were held at Saint Olaf's Church, Minneapolis. Participating in the Requiem High Mass and services were: Col. Patrick J. Ryan, ChC, USA; Monsignor James H. Moynihan, President Emeritus of the College of Saint Thomas; Reverend Father Vincent J. Flynn, President of the College of Saint Thomas; Monsignor Edward Casey, Lipa, P. I. (a Japanese Prisoner of War survivor), and Fathers Cowley and Garretts of St. Olaf Parish. Reverend Father George Ziskovsky of the Saint Paul Seminary sang the Requiem Mass and said the graveside prayers at Ft. Snelling National Cemetery. A guard of honor of Saint Thomas cadets attended the Mass and cemetery services.

Colonel Carr will remain at the Hotel Curtis, Minneapolis, for the present.

Col. Louis Farrell, USA-Ret.

Col. Louis Farrell, Inf., USA-Ret., died 26 April at his home in Belle Meade, Nashville, Tenn., from a heart condition which had persisted since 1940.

He was born in Nashville 17 Dec. 1878 and spent his boyhood there in the beautiful old home of his ancestors, "Burlington." He was the son of Norman and Josephine Elliston Farrell.

Colonel Farrell received his education at Webb's School in Bell Buckle, Tenn., and at Vanderbilt University, where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity and played football on the famous Vanderbilt teams of '96 and '97, when he was affectionately known as "Tab" Farrell.

He enlisted in the Army in 1901 and received his commission two years later. He was a graduate of the Infantry School, the Command and General Staff School, Army War College, and served with distinction in the regiments to which he was assigned—27th Infantry, 15th Infantry, 9th Infantry, 36th Infantry, 59th Infantry and the 4th Infantry, which he commanded.

He was an instructor at the Command and General Staff School at Ft. Leavenworth for four years and instructor to the Staff of the 40th Division of National Guard in California for four years.

His various assignments also included tour as PMS&T at Mississippi A&M and at Mar-sey's Preparatory School. He served three tours of duty in the Philippines and fought in World War I. He was critically wounded at the battle of Chateau Thierry while commanding a battalion of the 59th Infantry brigade with the French. The machine gun bullet which struck him down remained embedded in his chest until his death.

Colonel Farrell was on duty on the General Staff of the 7th Corps Area at Ft. Omaha, Neb., when he suffered the coronary thrombosis which caused his retirement.

Colonel Farrell was married in 1910 to Miss Mollie Gaines Wilson of Pulaski, Tenn., who Dunlap of Berkeley, Calif., and Mrs. Bertram J. Prueher of Nashville, and eleven grandchildren; two sisters and one brother, all residing in Nashville. Colonel Farrell was buried at Arlington 28 April 1950.

Service Academy Sports

The West Point baseball team garnered its first victory since 1945 against the midshipmen at Annapolis last week-end.

With the score tied 3-all, after Navy came from behind with one run in the last of the ninth, the game went into extra innings. In the 15th, with two out and the bases loaded, Arnold Galiffa hit a high pop fly which resulted in a collision between two Navy players and permitted Army's Tom Lobe and Tom Fitzpatrick to cross the plate with the winning runs. Army's righthander Ted Griesinger pitched 12 1/3 innings in a relief role, giving up eight hits.

Navy Takes Golf

The Navy won five of the seven golf matches to take its eleventh link decision against the Cadets. Since the series began, the Navy has been tied once by the West Pointers but has never suffered a loss.

Williams, Navy, defeated Bradon, 4 and 3; Sullivan of Navy, defeated Rose, 4 and 3; Fontaine, Navy, defeated Allen, 6 and 4; Wiseman, Navy, defeated Bates, 5 and 4; Hart, Navy, defeated Szymczyk, 6 and 5; Walters, Army, defeated Baggett, 2 and 1; Gard, Army, defeated Inman, 3 and 2.

Army Dominates Track

The Cadets, setting one new stadium and two new meet records, took their fourth straight track and field meet from the Midshipmen, 85 1/2 to 44 1/2.

Army's Jim Thompson set a new two-mile track and meet standard of 9 minutes 25.7 seconds, knocking 3.1 seconds off the old Thompson Stadium mark earned by former Midshipman Ward Hardman in 1932.

The Army relay team finished in 3 minutes 20 seconds, establishing a new inter-academy record by four-tenths of a second. Members of the team are Ed White, Bill Vandenberg, Doug Wainer and Al Conway.

Midshipman Charlie Andrews, with an aggregate of 11 points, was high man of the meet. He won the 220-yard dash in 24 seconds, the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet 7 1/4 inches, and finished third in the 100-yard sprint.

Gen. H. H. George Honored

Victorville AFB, Calif., soon will be re-named George AFB, in honor of Brig. Gen. Harold H. George, who was killed in an airplane accident in the South Pacific theater, 30 April, 1942, General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force Chief of Staff, announced on 31 May.

General George served as chief of staff of the Far Eastern Air Force during the early phases of World War II. During wartime, Victorville AFB was the site of an advanced twin-engine training school. The Air Materiel Command later used the base for storage of surplus aircraft. The Continental Air Command has command jurisdiction of the base.

Joint Air Training

Joint use of facilities for Naval and Air Force air reserve training at Olathe Naval Air Station, Kans., started officially 22 May, when the 2472d Air Force Reserve Training Center moved and commenced operations on the Navy field. The AFRTC had been based at Fairfax Field in Kansas City, Kans.

The Olathe Naval Air Station is commanded by Capt. Campbell Keene. The 2472d AFRTC, a unit of the Continental Air Command and Tenth Air Force, is led by Col. R. A. Morehouse.

individual societies, or which might be performed better by collective action.

In the fall of 1947, a committee of the Council discussed the need for an advisory committee setup with representatives of the Munitions Board. Both Army and Navy representatives were very sympathetic with the problem presented by the industry. It is interesting to note that a number of officers who met with the industry had encountered problems in castings procurement during the war, or had been associated with military establishments which included foundries.

As a result of these discussions, the Munitions Board extended invitations to representatives of the various branches of the foundry industry to form an advisory committee. Representation was secured among producers of aluminum and magnesium castings, brass and bronze castings, gray iron castings, malleable iron castings, steel castings, and foundry equipment and supplies. In selecting members from these branches of the industry a balance was sought between large, medium, and small organizations. Equitable geographic distribution of memberships was also given consideration.

The effectiveness of a committee's operation depends in a large part on the proper selection of its original membership. Committee members must be men who not only are highly qualified, but who have demonstrated their capability for cooperative effort. They must be able to subordinate their company's interest to the interests of National Security. This is particularly true of the Foundry committees. Its members are not only natural business competitors, but also in many cases are producers of castings made from competing materials.

These men met in Washington on September 29, 1948, organized the Foundry Industry Advisory Committee, elected a chairman and outlined the procedure to be followed in organizing the advisory subcommittees.

Much of the time at the organization meeting was devoted to a thorough discussion of the obstacles to foundry production during World War II, and the planning which should be undertaken to prevent such problems and aid in casting production in event of another emergency. Stress was laid on the need for advance planning on scheduling and procurement, the importance of alternate specifications which would permit substitution of materials for many applications, the possibility of providing better inspection on the

New Business Gains

In a highly optimistic month-end report the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System reported further business gains in April and May. Industrial production rose two points in April and made a similar gain in May.

Steel output was at record levels in April and May, and during the week ending 28 May was at 102 per cent of present rated capacity. During May automobile production was at a new peak rate. There was a sustained demand for durable goods, particularly for radios, television sets, and other items of household furnishings and appliances.

Nonagricultural employment increased by 400,000 in April. Unemployment dropped to 3.5 million, a million below February, but half a million above that of a year ago.

Value of construction contracts continued at the record March level, as a substantial increase in private awards offset a decline in contracts for public building. Residential construction continued to increase, and awards for new dwelling units in April were more than double the dollar volume of the same month in 1949.

Department store sales in April and May were close to the volume of a year ago, and nearly three times the 1935-1939 average. The general level of wholesale prices rose about 2.5 per cent from mid-April to the third week in May. Common stock prices rose 3.5 per cent during May and are now at the highest level since June 1946.

part of the procurement agencies, and the need of supplying the necessary machines, men, supplies and raw materials to do the job with maximum efficiency.

The committee authorized the organization of ten subcommittees as follows: Aluminum and Magnesium; Brass and Bronze; Cast Armor Plate; Cast Iron Pipe; Foundry Equipment; Foundry Supplies; Gray Iron; Malleable Iron; Steel; and Technical. Half of these subcommittees have held organizational meetings, and the remainder will be scheduled during 1950. The first nine subcommittees were formed in order to have adequate working groups of well qualified members from each segment of the industry who would be available to undertake any studies requested by the Munitions Board.

The Malleable Iron Subcommittee is currently engaged in developing recommendations for submission to the Board on a proposed wartime organization of the committee and a method of procedure for the accomplishment of its mobilization mission of production. In connection with this study, a survey of the production capacity and related factors is being made. Individual plant statistics will be received by the Statistical Office of the Munitions Board, in order to preserve the confidential status of individual plant data. These will be tabulated and the totals supplied the committee for study and incorporation in the final report.

Membership on the Technical Subcommittee was so selected that the committee might be used as a focal point for the

Luxury Liner Launching

The Independence, a 20,000 ton luxury liner for the American Export Lines' Mediterranean service, will slide down the ways today, 3 June, at Quincy, Mass. Mrs. John E. Slater, wife of the president of the American Export Lines, will christen the ship, which is the first of two liners that the company has under construction. A preview of the interiors of the two vessels was held this week at the Waldorf-Astoria, where 1,000 guests had the opportunity of viewing scale models of the public rooms. The interiors were developed by Henry Dreyfuss, industrial designer, in collaboration with the Export Line staff.

Mrs. Alben W. Barkley, wife of the Vice President of the United States, will sponsor the launching of the President Jackson, first of the American President Lines' three new round-the-world luxury liners, it was announced this week by company president, George Killion. The President Jackson will be launched at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation's yard at Camden, N. J., on Tuesday, 27 June, with the two sister ships, President Adams and President Hayes, following at two month intervals. In his letter of invitation to Mrs. Barkley, Mr. Killion said that "it is eminently fitting that the wife of the Vice-President, who has so closely patterned his own life and principles after our esteemed 7th President of the United States, should christen this great vessel named in memory of President Andrew Jackson."

discussion of any vital procurement or production problems in the field of specifications or design of castings for the Department of Defense. This committee will also serve to keep the military departments informed of technological developments in the industry. Representatives from the procurement and planning offices of the Army, Navy, and Air Force were invited to be present at the first meeting. At that time discussions were presented by committee members on recent developments in each branch of the foundry industry.

Because the products of the foundry industry are not suitable for stockpiling, the services of these committees lies in the field of acquainting government agencies with the present status of the industry as it relates to production and product, and to plan for meeting any problem of another emergency. If these goals can be accomplished, the foundry industry will be in position to meet any emergency needs quickly and efficiently.

Recommendations and reports developed by the subcommittees will be studied by members of the main committee. After evaluation and review the main committee will indicate its concurrence or any dissenting opinion in forwarding these reports to the Munitions Board for such action as is indicated.

Overall mobilization planning is made up of numerous bits and pieces. Reports and advice from committees such as the Foundry Industry Advisory Committee furnish many of the bits and pieces from which the Industrial Mobilization Plan is developed.

The Foundry Industry Advisory Committee was formed 21 July 1948 to advise the Munitions Board in the development of features of the industrial mobilization plan related to ferrous and non-ferrous foundries. The author of the above article, Mr. F. G. Steinebach, Editor of "The Foundry," is chairman of the committee, and Lt. Col. F. H. Holmes, USAF, is liaison officer between the committee and the Board. The committee consists of the following additional representatives of industry:

U.S.-Canadian Purchases

Commendation has been given by Defense Secretary Louis Johnson to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States for its stand in support of reciprocal military purchasing by Canada and the United States.

"Endorsement by the Chamber," said a letter signed by Defense Secretary Johnson, "lends encouragement to those of us interested in hemispheric defense and, I am certain, will aid in its development."

"Reciprocal procurement of military equipment between the United States and Canada has been studied by this department during recent months. This study indicates a definite need for balanced procurement between the two countries. We are well aware of the mutual defense benefits that might be derived from reciprocal procurement."

Compete for Journal Trophy

The winner of the ARMY NAVY AIR FORCE JOURNAL Grand Prize in the Second Annual Inter-Service Photography Contest will be announced on 6 June.

The trophy, a beautiful sterling silver punch bowl, donated last year by this publication, is awarded annually to the Service securing the greatest number of points in the photographic competition. Individual prizes will be awarded first, second and third places in each category, with an individual grand prize for the best black and white picture entered.

Three hundred and sixty photographs, chosen from among thousands taken by members of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, will be in competition in the finals of the contest. They were the winning entries in preliminary contests held at Service installations throughout the world. A final screening limited the entries to 120 from the Army, 120 from the Air Force, and 120 from the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard.

These pictures will be placed on exhibition at the Concourse of the Pentagon and judged on the evening of 5 June and the morning of 6 June, with results announced on the afternoon of 6 June. Following the judging the exhibition will be open to the public at the Pentagon from 6 June to 16 June, and at the Concourse of the Department of Commerce from 19 June to 30 June.

The photographs are classified into five categories—one color and four black and white. The color subjects are unrestricted; the classifications of the black and white pictures are service life, landscapes and architecture, people and customs, and general pictorial. The judging to select five winning places in each category will be based on a point system.

Prizes will be awarded by five judges, including Norman C. Lipton, eastern editor of Popular Photography, and E. V. Wensell, managing editor of Camera Magazine.

Appointed to USMA

Robal A. Johnson, son of Col. and Mrs. Robal A. Johnson, has been appointed to the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., having received both a Presidential appointment and appointment as first alternate from Representative August Andresen (R-Minn.).

He resigned the Presidential appointment to accept the Congressional appointment when Representative Andresen's first nominee failed to qualify.

Jet Interceptors

Already assigned to bolster the defense front in the northwest corner of the nation, the first of the Air Force's radar-equipped, Lockheed F-94 jet interceptors, have begun rolling off the assembly lines at Burbank, Calif.

Orders for a substantial number of the fast, jet powered fighters have been received by Lockheed Aircraft Corporation from the Air Force, and they are now being produced on an assembly line basis in the same factories that have turned out more than 1500 "Shooting Star" jet fighters.

The F-94, equipped with an Allison turbo-jet engine, is a development of the Lockheed F-80 Shooting Star, and the T-33 two-place jet trainer that was an outgrowth of the F-80. It carries a radar operator in the aft cockpit, with the pilot occupying the forward seat.

High altitude radar-controlled interception of enemy attack is the F-94's principal mission. The F-94 is equipped with modern electronic approach and landing aids to come into safe landings in adverse weather.

Afterburning, a device used to boost the thrust of the F-94's jet engine, is another new feature of this aircraft. By spraying fuel directly into the jet exhaust behind the turbine wheel, additional bursts of power can be achieved for short intervals to permit rapid climb or emergency power for combat periods. Because this system consumes fuel at a high rate, however, it is used only for brief periods.

Air Force Register

The 1950 issue of the Air Force Register is now available from the Government Printing Office at a cost of $1 for a paper cover edition.

This is the second Air Force Register to be published. General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, USAF, Chief of Staff, asked all officers on the active list to report to the Air Adjutant General any errors or omissions.

In addition to a list of officers, the volume contains a Warrant Officer List, which contains the names of those who were serving as warrant officers as of 1 Jan. The Warrant Officer List gives the new service number for warrant officers as well as the old.

The 1950 active list shows 19,982 officers, including 1,062 new appointments and 1,338 transfers. Losses were 70 officer retirements, 107 deaths, eight dismissals, 113 resignations, 29 honorable discharges, 16 revocations of commission, and 13 transferred—a total of 356.

Equality of Treatment

Present programs of the Army, Navy and Air Force are designed to accomplish objectives of the President in the integration of Negro personnel and "within the reasonably near future" there will be equality of treatment and opportunity for all persons in the Armed Forces.

This is the conclusion made public by the President's Committee on Equality of Treatment and Opportunity in the Armed Services, created in July 1948 under the chairmanship of Mr. Charles Fahy.

In its conclusion, the Committee stated that "inequality had contributed to inefficiency" and declared that a policy of equality of treatment and opportunity "will make for a better Army, Navy, and Air Force" and will "strengthen the Nation."

Following exhaustive studies and field investigations of Navy ships and stations, Air Force bases and Army posts, the Committee reported these developments among the Services.

All jobs and ratings in the naval general service now are open to all enlisted men without regard to race or color. Negroes are currently serving in every job classification in general service.

All courses in Navy technical schools are open to qualified personnel without regard to race or color and without racial quotas. Negroes are attending the most advanced technical schools and are serving in their ratings both in the fleet and at shore installations.

Negroes in general service are completely integrated with whites in basic training, technical schools, on the job, in messes and sleeping quarters, ashore and afloat.

Chief, first-, second-, and third-class stewards now have the rate of chief, first-, second-, and third-class petty officers.

Stewards who qualify for general ratings now can transfer to general service.

The Marine Corps, which as a part of the Navy is subject to Navy policy, has abolished its segregated Negro training units. Marine Corps training is now integrated, although some Negro marines are still assigned to separate units after basic training. In this respect the effectuation of Navy policy in the Marine Corps is yet to be completed.

The Air Force announced its new racial policy on 11 May 1949. As a result of this policy, the all-Negro 332d Fighter Wing at Lockbourne Field, Ohio, has been broken up, and its personnel either sent to school for further training, transferred to white units in other commands, or separated under current regulations.

A majority of other Negro units has also been abolished. As of 31 Jan. 1950, only 59 Negro units remained, and 1,301 units were racially integrated, as compared with 166 Negro units and only 167 mixed units on 1 June 1949, when the Air Force policy went into effect.

Approximately 74 per cent of the 25,000 Negroes in the Air Force on 31 Jan., 1950, were serving in integrated units; and 26 per cent still were serving in Negro units. This integration process is continuing.

All Air Force jobs and schools are open to qualified personnel without racial restriction or quotas. Six per cent of the total personnel attending technical training schools in January, 1950, were Negro.

Negroes serving in mixed units and attending service schools are integrated with whites in living conditions.

All Army jobs now are open to Negroes.

All Army school courses are open to Negroes without restriction or quota.

For the first time Negroes no longer are limited in assignment to Negro and overhead (housekeeping) units, but are to be assigned according to their qualifications to any unit, including formerly white units.

Negroes serving in mixed units will be integrated on the job, in barracks and messes.

The 10 per cent limitation on Negro strength in the Army has been abolished, and there no longer are Negro quotas for enlistment.

The President's Committee, as previously stated, began its task convinced that the problem confronting it could not be resolved by appealing to moral justice or democratic ideals alone. Military officials did not deny the claim of these ideals; they asserted, however, that in discharging their duty they must maintain military efficiency. The Committee on its part did not deny the claim of military efficiency; but it believed the assumption that equality of treatment and opportunity would impair efficiency was of doubtful validity. The Committee found, in fact, that inequality had contributed to inefficiency.

As a result of its examination into the rules, procedures, and practices of the armed services, both past and present, the Committee is convinced that a policy of equality of treatment and opportunity will make for a better Army, Navy, and Air Force. It is right and just. It will strengthen the nation.

The integrity of the individual, his equal worth in the sight of God, his equal protection under law, his equal rights and obligations of citizenship and his equal opportunity to make just and constructive use of his endowment—these are the very foundation of the American system of values. The President's Committee throughout its deliberations shaped its course consistently with these principles.
